The contract for the Times with regard to the new constitution of Malta and the strange means by which it was obtained, last night.

A PAINTER who gave his name as Yip Ahong has had a bitter disappointment in connection with his New Year arrangements. It appears that in order to duly celebrate the festive season he had deemed it necessary to collect a large fund, but he unfortunately neglected to keep in view the line of demarcation between legal and illegal methods of procedure. The other day he so far forgot himself that he went on board a junk, opposite the Central Market, and threatened to inflict corporal punishment upon the wife of the boatman if she failed to contribute to his New Year's fund.
The woman, having no money handy, was compelled to decline, and Ahong left voving that he would return and wreak vengeance on her. When he returned the master of the junk was present, and there was a lukong in the immediate neighbourhood. The reckless Ahong, blind to everything except that he must have a glorious New Year festival, arrogantly demanded three dollars from the boatman, and swore that if he did not get it he would bring along a band of his brothers and make general havoc. At this juncture the lukong came on the scene, and the result was that Mr. Woodhouse to-day sent Ahong to prison for six months.

We hear that the Chinese merchants and traders have resolved to hold a meeting in a day or two, to discuss the proposed Bill for the Registration of Imports and Exports. As our correspondent 'S' has twice pointed out, but little attempt was made by the Chamber of Commerce to get at the native feeling about the Bill - infact, until within the last few days the native merchants and traders did not know what the thing was all about. It is only fair, however, to note that the Registrar General has endeavoured, on the part of the Government, to explain the measure to the Chinese. We learn that he called together a number of the leading Chinese merchants and importers, two or three days ago, and went over the various sections of the Bill with them, explaining to them the drift of the Ordinance. One or two objections were taken or suggested, made, but so far the principle of the Bill is believed to have been in the main accepted - whatever that may mean, in a Chinese sense. The Government have also, we are informed, within the last few days sent round amongst the Chinese a thousand copies of the Draft Ordinance, printed in Chinese. It would have been highly advisable and most useful had this been accompanied by a brief explanation of the objects which the Government have in view in introducing such a measure, at the suggestion of the Chamber of Commerce; but we are led to believe that the Registrar General had done his utmost to make it clear that the law is proposed for the sole object of obtaining returns of trade.
The views of the Chinese will probably appear next week.

boat could reach easily. M. Constant also assured the merchants that he would adopt a far more liberal policy than his predecessor with regard to concessions for mines &c. As to the vexed question of a deep water harbour he sided with the Haiphong merchants in thinking that Haiphong should be developed and that the question of a deep harbour should be left over for some time to come. At Hanoi M.
Constant seems to have met merchants with less advanced opinions than those at Haiphong, for, we observe, that in their address they urge on the necessity of protecting Tonkin so that Hongkong should not reap the benefits of the trade which France expects to develop with the Southern provinces of China. We may rest assured that the more France seeks to protect her colonies and her industries in the way she is doing, the less likelihood is there of their entering into serious competition with English enterprise.

The Times of Canton publishes the following telegram: - Nuwara, Elyia, Jan. 10th.
- The O. B. C. bank here was broken into last night and the whole of the silver and jewellery stolen from the strong room. Mr.
Mearns, the manager, was heavily drugged.
He was alone in the bungalow with one servant only, and fell asleep immediately after his dinner. He has some recollection of being undressed and put to bed, and then being asked for his keys by some one, which he refused; but they ultimately got them, but fortunately could not open the safe with the notes. Part of the strong room was broken down.

RICE MILLS FOR JAPAN. - Messrs. J. Copeland and Co., engineers and millwrights, Pulney-street Engine Works, Glasgow, have just shipped to Higo a complete automatic rice-milling plant, which is capable of pearly 70 tons of rice per day.
The machinery includes five hulling mills provided with emery-faced discs, five emery-coated polishing cones, four pearly mills for brush and sheeps, and the requisite elevators, separators, rollers, and fan mountings. The engines and boilers have been supplied by the same firm, the former being of the compound jet-condensing type, fitted with expansion valves, and the boilers are of the Cornish type and have been adapted for which the King of Siam, and are fitted with special furnaces for burning the husks from the rice. The same firm have also in hand a flour mill with engine and boiler for the same country.

A MISSION TO SIAM. - The Daily News states: - Lieut. General Sir Andrew Clarke, R.E., G.C.M.G., and other influential gentlemen, are now on their way to Siam, charged with a mission of considerable importance. For a long time there has been a strong desire among traders to secure commercial relations with the King of Siam, and to construct railways and open up trade through Siam and Western China.
Syndicates of American and German capitalists have more than once made serious attempts in that direction, but always failed, owing to the hostility of the King of Siam.
The Chinese, on the other hand, are not unfavourable to such a project. Understood by others' want of success, a graduate of English capitalists have resolved to make another endeavour to open up the closed territory. There is good reason for taking a hopeful view of the venture, as Sir Andrew Clarke is well known to the King of Siam, and has considerable influence there.

That Clapham Junction has attained to the largest amount of concentrated 'through traffic' of any place in the United Kingdom, but I am not aware that any striking benefits have accrued to the neighbourhood in consequence.

That the Public are glad to see from the report of the Seamen's Chaplain that the work amongst seamen here is prospering and bearing fruit.

That Sunday-work in this port should be stopped in the interest of every member of the community, on the score alone of 'a sound mind in a sound body.'

That if shipowners at Home and Merchants here would but study the matter a bit, they would find that their interests would not suffer, while the hard-worked seamen would warmly welcome their one-day's rest.

That the watch and watch system in many mercantile offices here, is too much for any constitution, and the Sunday rest ought to be made a hard and fast rule instead of the rare exception.

That there are some things which 'no fellow can understand,' and the theory and practice of government in Hongkong, as handed down, is one of these.

That I am afraid the Gap Rock has been placed on the shelf once more.

That the Gun contract still remains unfulfilled, and will be a monument to Colonial Office incapacity and bad faith.

That the Fever Commission will probably report after all of us have shuffled off this mortal coil except the Doctors.

That, by the way, your Reporter made a Medical witness before the Commission
- who, so far as I am aware, has not the excuse of being Scotch - to say that the small in a certain neighbourhood could be 'felt.'

That under the circumstances the expression was peculiarly appropriate, as many of the odours pervading the neighbourhood referred to are quite tangible enough to be felt.

That Sandy generally can give a 'reason for the faith that is in him,' and probably one would be forthcoming fully justifying the use of the word 'felt' in connection with nasal attributes.

That caution is one thing, hesitation another; but we must be thankful for the modified boom of being allowed to hear our own financial arrangements discussed when, in the opinion of officials, there is no reason for closing the door upon the taxpayers.

That I am curious to know what matters of finance it is desirable to hide from those who have to pay the piper, excepting details of armaments or other defences; and these were more fully made known by General Cameron, who he was acting Governor, than they had ever been before.

That any possible secrecy in such quarters will throw the greater responsibility upon the unofficial members, who ought to fight persistently against this spirit of exclusivness which is still abroad.

That, with all respect to His Excellency, I think he might have been more firm and decided in his condemnation of all 'closed door' procedure.

That we are probably not so far off a Constitution as some people think - given a little more Colonial Office high-handedness, and I should say a change would speedily come.

That I quite agree with our City Fathers in thinking that the scarcity of small coins of the realm is a very great inconvenience; I have often felt it.

That I regret to say that personally I feel the greater scarcity of the larger coinage a very much more serious inconvenience, and I trust they will speedily set about finding a remedy for that also.

That at the same time it does seem strange that we cannot even keep up our supply of these small coins without everlastingly considering the notions of Her Majesty's Lords of the Treasury.

That it is regarded by the Chinese as an unpardonable event that the recent procession has had the effect of considerably abating the outbreak of small-pox.

That the effects of vaccination, the influence of rain, and the other means adopted by the authorities appear as nothing compared with the wonderful and mysterious power of this procession of Josses.

That some of the Chinese now think that the Governor, having put his official seal upon this procession, should show in some way his appreciation of this mysterious achievement, and go, with all his officials and the Sanitary Board, in solemn procession to the native temple, there to acknowledge the favours vouchsafed by the gods to the poor suffering people.

That I have my suspicions that this notion emanates from some unbelieving Celestial, who enjoys the honours paid by Government to the Chinese beliefs, but believes neither in Confucius' codes of morality, nor in anything better.

French diplomats consider that the French troops should remain in the New Hebrides until Egypt is evacuated by the British.

THE NEW HEBRIDES.

London, Jan. 7.—A provision is included in the New Hebrides Convention which pledges France to allow British subjects equal commercial privileges in the Leeward Islands (Pacific) with those enjoyed by the French. It further guarantees that no conscripts shall be sent to the Leeward Islands.

London, Jan. 9.—The raid which was made by Montenegrin insurgents in the vicinity of Bourgos, on the Bulgarian frontier, under the direction of a Russian military officer, is generally supposed to have been organised by Mr. Zankoff, with the assistance of the Slav committees at Odessa and Odessa.

It has been reported that Prince Nikita, of Montenegro, warned the Sultan of Turkey of the attempted raid, and the raid was consequently suppressed, ten of the Montenegrins being killed.

London, Jan. 10.—Further particulars in regard to the raid which was made by Montenegrin insurgents in the vicinity of Bourgos, on the Bulgarian frontier, show that, with the exception of 20 men, all the insurgents were either killed or captured.
